

Success story:

Fresh air in the UpH

Clear heads thanks to timeair

To success overview >>>

The seminar rooms at the event and seminar location "Unperfekthaus" ("ImperfectHouse") in Essen are all equipped with a timeair. The timeair measures the CO₂ concentration in the air and indicates when it is time again to ventilate. Ventilation in seminars and at events of all kinds is important not only during the pandemic: concentrated work and clear heads require fresh air!

"Thanks to the countdown no programs or presentations need to be needlessly interrupted. Our guests appreciate the discrete visual notification." (Till, Unperfekthaus)
